PROJECTS

• TranspoLink

This web application is designed to streamline the interaction between suppliers, buyers, and logistics operations. It offers robust inventory management capabilities, enabling users to manage product inventories across multiple warehouses through various inventory movements. The platform supports end-to-end supply chain and logistics workflows, ensuring smooth transportation of goods to buyers through multiple shipment options.

• FXTrade

This web application was developed to facilitate real-time trading of Forex and Bitcoin through integrated online platforms. It allows users to engage in live trading based on current market rates, ensuring up-to-date pricing and seamless transaction execution. In addition to spot trading, the platform also supports forward contracts, enabling users to lock in future trades at predetermined rates—providing a strategic edge for hedging and planning.

• ProTaskz

This web application was developed as an online productivity platform, offering users a comprehensive suite of tools to collaborate, organize, and manage their work efficiently.

• Peacock HRMS

This web application was mainly created for offering HRMS systems for multiple organizations over the network. The project consists of some modules such as employee management, organizations management, leave management, attendance management, training and recruitment management, finance management, assets management, public holidays and week offs management, etc.
